Steven T. Cheng is an Associate in the Corporate Department at Meyer, Suozzi, English & Klein, P.C. Mr. Cheng focuses his practice on general corporate law, securities law, corporate finance and other transactional matters. He assists both public and private companies in all stages of development in a variety of matters, including mergers and acquisitions, corporate governance, and public and private offerings of securities. Mr. Cheng also represents partnerships and limited liability companies in their formation, day-to-day operations and business transactions.

Notable experience includes:

- Represented a transnational pharmaceutical company in connection with its acquisition of a privately-held pharmaceutical company.
- Represented a publicly-traded medical device company in connection with its participation as lead investor in a venture capital financing and the grant to the public company of an option to acquire the private company based on future milestones.
- Represented a NYSE-listed company and its subsidiary in the acquisition of a mortgage origination business in a Section 363 bankruptcy sale.
- Represented a US-subsiary of an AIM-listed information technology company in its strategic acquisition of a US information technology and support services company.
- Represented an international medical device company in several rounds of debt financing from venture capital firms.
- Represented private investors in connection with multiple private equity and debt transactions.

Prior to joining the firm, Mr. Cheng served as Counsel to Bohrer PLLC and before that he was an Associate with Brown Rudnick, LLP.
