Ms. Darling's practice focuses on plaintiff's personal injury trial work, as well as trials of catastrophic tort and wrongful death cases. She routinely represents clients who have been seriously injured or killed in car, truck, train, plane, bus and bicycle accidents, injuries resulting from premises liability, assault and battery, rape and other intentional acts. Ms. Darling also represents workers who are injured as a result of New York State Labor Law violations in construction accidents involving falls from scaffolds, ladders and crane collapses.

Notable experience includes:

- Represented the family of a deceased firefighter for a claim under Section 205-a of the General Municipal Law, and recovered a settlement of $8,400,000
- Represented a father of four killed in a motorcycle-car accident, and recovered $3,825,000
- Represented a student burned by lighter fluid while barbecuing, and recovered $3,400,000
- Represented a driver brain injured in a two vehicle accident, and recovered $3,200,000

Ms. Darling is also the Of Counsel of the Education Law practice, a service created in response to increasing requests by parents of learning disabled children for assistance in securing timely educational evaluations, services and accommodations for their children in public and private school settings under federal and state law.

The hallmark of Ms. Darling's practice is her care and attention to the seriously injured clients she assists. Ms. Darling's professional life has been driven by her advocacy for those who cannot defend themselves. In 1978, she began her career as an Assistant District Attorney under Bronx D.A. Mario Merola. She prosecuted sex crimes involving children. In many instances, these victims were unable to verbally communicate their abuse, be it for reasons of trauma, infancy or difficulty with language. Under Ms. Darling's leadership, the Bronx D.A.'s office pioneered the use of anatomically-correct cloth dolls of all races, ages and genders. The use of these dolls enabled the victims to act out the offenses perpetrated upon them in front of the Grand Jury, when they lacked the verbal skills to do so, in order that indictments could be obtained. This trail-blazing method of testimony was upheld by the courts and is widely used today. Ms. Darling worked personally with these young victims whose trust in her was bolstered by her youth and compassion. Their devastating tales of abuse remain with her today as she advocates for children in the special education and personal injury arenas.

She is a frequent lecturer on trial evidence, special education law and related topics.

Ms. Darling is rated "AV Preeminent" by Martindale-Hubbell, the highest level in professional excellence, and has been honored for outstanding service and dedication in providing legal representation as well as advice on a pro bono basis. In April 2016, she received the first Judith Bloch Award from Variety Child Learning Center for her vision in creating the Education Law Group at Meyer Suozzi and her legal work in requiring school districts to provide learning disabled children with appropriate educational supports. Ms. Darling has been named to the New York Super Lawyers list as one of the top attorneys in New York from 2014-2023. In 2013 she was named an Access to Justice Champion by the Nassau County Bar Association and a 2013 Woman of Distinction by New York State Assemblyman Edward P. Ra.
